HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS AND Hoofland's German Tonic. The Great Remedies for all Diseases of the LIVER, STOMACH, OR DIGESTIVE ORGANS. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS Is composed of the pure juices (or, as they are medically termed, Extracts,) of Roots, Herbs, and Barks, making a preparation, highly concentrated, and entirely free from alcoholic admixture of any kind. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC, Is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with the purest quality of Santa Cruz Rum, Orange, &c., making one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public. Those preferring a Medicine free from Alcoholic admixture, will use HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS. Those who have no objection to the combination of the bitters, as stated, will use HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC. They are both equally good, and contain the same medicinal virtues, the choice between the two being a mere matter of taste, the tonic being the most palatable. The stomach, from a variety of causes, such as Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, etc., is very apt to have its functions deranged. The Liver, sympathizing so closely as it does with the stomach, then becomes affected, the result of which is that the patient suffers from several or more of the following diseases:

Constipation, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Fullness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for Food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried or Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a lying posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, etc., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil; and Great Depression of Spirits.

The sufferer from these diseases should exercise the greatest caution in the selection of a remedy for his cure, purchasing only that which he is assured from his investigation is worthy of confidence. The name must, is skillfully compounded, is free from injurious ingredients, and has established for itself a reputation for the cure of these diseases. In this connection we would submit those well known remedies—

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS AND HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC, Prepared by DR. C. M. JACKSON, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Twenty-two years since they were first introduced into this country from Germany, during which time they have undoubtedly performed more cures, and benefited suffering humanity to a greater extent, than any other remedies known to the public. These remedies will effectually cure Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Chronic Diarrhœa, Disease of the Kidneys, and all Diseases arising from a disordered Liver, Stomach, or Intestines.

DEBILITY, Resulting from any Cause whatever; PROSTRATION OF THE SYSTEM, induced by Severe Labor, Hardships, Exposure, Fevers, &c.

There is no medicine extant equal to these remedies in such cases. A tone and vigor is imparted to the whole system, the appetite is strengthened, food is enjoyed, the stomach digests promptly, the blood is purified, becomes plenteous, becomes sound and healthy, the yellow tinge in the white of the eyes, a bloom is given to the cheeks, and the weak and nervous invalid becomes a strong and healthy being.

PERSONS ADVANCED IN LIFE,

And feeling the hand of time weighing heavily upon them, with all its attendant ills, will find in the use of this GREAT TRIO, or the TONIC as their last will itself new life into their veins, restore in a measure the energy and action of more youthful days, build up their shrunken forms, and give health and happiness to their remaining years.

NOTICE. It is a well established fact that fully one half of the female portion of our population are seldom in the enjoyment of good health; they, or, to use their own expression, "never feel well. They are languid, devoid of all energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite. To this class of persons the BITTERS, or the TONIC, is especially recommended.

WEAK AND DELICATE CHILDREN, Are made strong by the use of either of these remedies. They will cure every case of MARASMUS, without fail. Thousands of certificates have accumulated in the hands of the proprietor, but space will allow of the publication of but a few. Those, it will be observed, are men of note and of such standing that they must be believed.

TESTIMONIALS. HON. GEORGE W. WOODWARD, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pa., writes: Philadelphia, March 18, 1867. "I find 'Hoofland's German Tonic,' used in the case of great benefit in case of debility, and want of nervous action in the system. Yours, truly, GEO. W. WOODWARD." HON. JAMES THOMPSON, Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. Philadelphia, April 28, 1866. "I consider 'Hoofland's German Bitters' a valuable medicine in case of attacks of indigestion or dyspepsia. I can certify this from my experience of it. Yours, with respect, JAMES THOMPSON." FROM REV. JOSEPH H. KENNARD, D. D., Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church, Philadelphia. Dr. Jackson—Dear sir: I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear conscience I can recommend in many instances, and particularly in my own family, of the excellence of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters. I depart for once from my usual course, to express my full conviction that, for general debility of the system, and especially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail; but usually, I think not, it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes. Yours, very respectfully, J. H. KENNARD, Eighth, below Coates St. FROM REV. E. D. FENDALL. Assistant Editor Christian Chronicle, Philadelphia. I have derived decided benefit from the use of Hoofland's German Bitters, and feel it my privilege to recommend them as a most valuable tonic, to all who are suffering from general debility or from diseases arising from derangement of the liver. Yours truly, E. D. FENDALL.

CAUTION. Hoofland's German Remedies are counterfeited. See that the signature of C. M. JACKSON is on the wrapper of each bottle. All others are counterfeit. Principal Office and Manufactory at the German Medicine Store, No. 631 ARCH Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Charles M. Evans, Proprietor, Formerly C. M. JACKSON & CO.

PRICES. Hoofland's German Bitters, per bottle, $1 00 " " half dozen, 5 00 Hoofland's German Tonic, put up in quart bottles $1 50 per bottle, or a half dozen for $7 50. Do not forget to examine well the article you buy, in order to get the genuine. For sale by all Dealers in Medicine. April 2,1868-1y pmpr.

HOW THEY POP THE QUESTION.

The sailor says: "I like your rig; And though I've noticed many, I really think you are, old girl, As trim a craft as any. And if you'll only say the word, Through every kind of weather; Just blast my timbers if we don't Go cruising on together."

The poet, with enraptured gaze, Points out a single star— "'Tis thus, sweet lady that you shine On mortals from afar; But ah! it is my fondest hope— Though selfish, I must own— That in some modest, vine wreathed cot You'll shine for me alone."

The dancing master—French of course— Thinks curiously of mating, And seeks some lovely widow with A bow exonciating. "Madame' ze heart is in ze hope You love a leetle heet, And go ze way of life wiz me— Madame, I kees your feet."

The actor quotes from many plays, And swears by all the powers His hand shall build his Annabella A cot among the flowers. Without her smile he e'er is like A ship without a rudder; Then talks of dark despair and death Until he makes her shudder.

And Pat, the coachman, winks at Bid. As she flits from room to room, The ever merry chambermaid, With dusting-pan and broom. He says: "Me darlint, when we've laid Us by a hape of money We'll get the praste to tie the knot, If you'll say yes, me honey."

Says Hans Von Schmidt, who keeps saloon, "I want a gut er frow To help me make der lager pier Und milk der prindle cow; To make mine shirts and cook de krout, Und every things to do; To feed der horse and slop der peeg, Und tend my babies too."

And even Sam, the barber man, At Nan rolls up his eyes, And talks of matrimonial bliss With most heart-rending sighs. "If you don't gub that lily hand To this 'ere lub-sick nigger, He puts dis pistol to him head, And den him pulls de trigger."

'Tis thus mankind rush to their fate, For with a brilliant light That little oslin being Love Has power beyond the sight. Like children's barks adown the falls To waters still below, Some glide along without a heart, And some to ruin go.

A FABLE.—It may add to the interest with which our readers will peruse this fable, to know that it is from the pen of Charles Dickens:

A lamb strayed for the first time into the woods, and excited much discussion among other animals. In a mixed company, one day, when he became the subject of friendly gossip, the goat praised him.

"Pooh!" said the lion, "this is too absurd. The beast is a pretty beast enough, but did you hear him roar? I heard his roar, and by the manes of my fathers, when he roars he does nothing by cry ba a!" And the lion bloated his best in mockery but bleated far from well.

"Nay," said the deer, "I do not think so badly of his office. I liked him well enough till I saw him leap, he kicks with his hind legs in running and, with all his skipping, gets over very little ground."

"It's a bad beast altogether," said the tiger. "He cannot roar, he cannot run, he cannot do nothing—and what a wonder? I killed a man yesterday, and in politeness to the new comer, offered him a bit; upon which he had the impudence to look disgusted and say, No, sir; I eat nothing but grass."

So the beasts criticised the lamb, each in his own way; and yet it was a good lamb, nevertheless.

HOW TO ENTERTAIN GUESTS.—I pray you O excellent wife, not to cumber yourself and me to get a rich dinner for this man, or this woman, who has alighted at our gate, nor a bed chamber made ready at too great a cost.—These things, if they are curious in, they can get for a dollar at any village.

But let this stranger see, if he will, in your looks, accent and behaviour, your heart and earnestness, your thought and will, what he cannot buy at any price, at any village or city, and which he may well travel fifty miles, and dine sparely, and sleep hard, in order to behold.

Certainly, let the board be spread and the bed be dressed for the traveler; but let the emphasis of hospitality be in these things. Honor to the house where they are simple to the verge of hardship, so that the intellect is awake and sees the laws of the universe, the soul worships truth and love; honor and courtesy flow into all deeds.—R. W. Emerson.

☞An Arkansas negro, expounding the Scriptures, had occasion to touch upon antediluvian longevity, and in the course of his remarks said that in those days men didn't marry before they were two hundred, and, in fact, were twenty-five year sold before they were born.

☞A Connecticut editor, having got into a controversy with a cotemporary, congratulated himself that his head was safe from a "donkey's heels." His cotemporary astutely inferred that he was unable to make both ends meet.

☞An Hibernian gentleman, when told by his nephew that he had just entered college with a view to the church, said, "I hope that I may live to hear you preach my funeral sermon."

LIGHT FINGERS.

The Whole Secret and Manner of Operations—A Talk with a Pickpocket.

[From the New York Sun.]

In the minds of the honest portion of the community an erroneous notion prevails that the taking of money or valuables from a man's pocket approaches art; in short, that picking pockets is a skilled department of thievery. Newspaper and magazine writers foster this idea. Now this notion is not exactly correct, and it is to set the matter right that I indite this article. I have had peculiar facilities for an honest man (and I hope I am such—anyhow, I have never been detected in any crime).

Not long ago I was brought into certain relations with one of the most noted and expert pickpockets of the day, and for more than a year had daily opportunities of communicating with him. During this time he explained to me the whole business of stealing from the person, and gave me practical illustration of the modus operandi in a number of cases. To get the gist of the matter of the humorous interviews had between myself and the pickpocket in a clear light, suppose that the following conversation occurs:

The Writer—"Now, George, what is your simplest mode of taking a man's money?"

George—"That's hard to tell, captain; there are so many ways of doing it, one as easy as the other, that there is no choice; besides, it depends upon circumstances. But the commonest way is this—there ain't much skill in it, only boldness: Three of us go together."

To a question—"No; we hardly ever work alone unless circumstances are very favorable or we are hard up. Of course anybody can take a man's 'wipe' but that game isn't played in the country. In fact, there he digressed with a sorrowful air, picking pockets don't pay like burglary—a man has to make so many more operations, and consequently runs so many more risks of being caught. But never mind, three of us go together, each one having his particular duty. We go into a crowd—any large crowd, but prefer a still crowd, such as you find listening to a political speech, elections are rich times with us—and to suppose a case in such a crowded throng, we single out a man who is promising and whose money we want; one of us work his way in front of him so as to crowd against his left arm, another gets himself behind him, and the operator stands at his right, partly back. In this particular case it is supposed that our game is a stranger having considerable money about him. He is careful of his money, and keeps his hands on his pocketbook, which is in his right hand pocket. When the proper time comes the man behind tips up or smashes down the hat of the countryman, whose first impulse is to restore it; as he can't raise his left arm he takes his hand from his right pocket, when the operator dives and seizes the money. This action the poor devil does not feel nine times out of ten; he is generally mad at having his hat knocked over his eyes, and turns to see who did it. The one who did the act seizes the first hat near him and shoves him ahead, then dives and rushes through the crowd; this we all do and meet at some appointed place to divide the profits. Generally the man whose money we have got has a 'jaw' with the one he finds behind him, and by the time he has missed his money we are dividing it. Of course we conform to the circumstances in the way of operating, but this is a fair illustration. Sometimes, however, when it is safe, we adopt the way of lifting the lining of the pocket, and so extracting the money. If we are caught in this, the same manner of getting away is adopted."

"Well, George, as to operation on street cars and railroads?"

"In respect to the former, they are generally nothing but forcible robberies; we got together on the platform, and by and by creating a row take a man's money by force before he knows it. And there is not much difference in our way of doing things on the railroads. We pick our man, and at some stopping place, where he gets out for lunch or any other purpose, one or two of us manage to get ahead of him, the other behind him, and by jostling and causing confusion we have no difficulty. Why! I alone made $8000 in following the Prince of Wales when he was here, and could have made more than that in following Lincoln from Springfield to Washington if some of us hadn't been fools. You see, suspicion was strong on us, and we stayed over in Buffalo to gamble, and were caught and convicted. They could not find anything against me, but one of the party had some money which was identified, and the Buffalo judges never let a man go if there is the shadow of a chance of holding him, and when he is found guilty they pile it on awful. A New York judge wouldn't have give me half as much as I got from that Buffalo man, and I believe I should have got clear away."

To a question—"O, yes, there are women pickpockets, and men who pick women's pockets. They usually go alone, and frequent horse cars, stages and churches—sometimes theatres, concerts and lectures. It is a risky business, for when a woman fastens on you she sticks. But the way of doing it is easy. For instance I sit alongside of a woman and manage to get my hand or finger into her pocket (she can't feel it as a man could) and I get out her pocketbook, then I open it (understand, though, that this was never in my line—I'm only telling you how 'tis done) and extract the money and then replace the pocketbook. That is 'weeding.' If she discovers her loss, she is almost sure to think that she has lost her money or left it where she was last shopping, and so we get off easy enough. The stories about throwing a bullet, which is shut into the pocketbook and is fastened to a slender cord, is a humbug, and any person of sense ought to know it."

"Now, as to getting watches and jewelry?"

"We don't do it—that is, the best of us don't—unless we are hard up. Some poor sticks make a business of stealing watches, but they are inferior. If we want a man's watch we manage pretty much the same way as if we were after their money. No; we don't cut the chain. We get the watch out of his pocket easy enough, and twist the ring out of it. Some of the old fashioned ones have the ring riveted, and make a loud snap; but the whole thing is easy. Then we get new rings put in and have the numbers altered—'christening,' we call it—and sell them to the 'fences.' For a watch worth $200 we get from $40 to $50. Silver watches we don't bother with. Chains we rarely get except by force, and they ain't worth much unless solid; then we have them melted down, as we also sometimes have the cases."

"As to diamond pins and studs?"

"That's a trick that requires boldness and skill. The usual manner of doing it is for the operator, carrying a cloak or coat on his arm, to meet the victim, behind whom come the confederates. As if by accident, he runs plump against his man, and thrusts the coat into his face with one arm, while with the hand of the other he snatches the pin. If there is any row the confederates pitch in, and all get away in confusion."

"But can you take money from a man's inside coat or vest pocket?"

"Of course; the same plan is adopted as with the pin. We 'spot' a man on the cars and watch him; I get some distance forward of him and my two pals behind; when he starts to leave the car I hurry forward and they hurry back; I get out ahead of him and turn round to meet him, while my confederates have come out and got close behind; I rush against him in front and they do behind; shove the coat in his face with one hand and dive for his money with the other. Sometimes we follow a man two or three days, and when we are sure he has a good pile with him we are bound to get it, and unless he is protected we do get it one way or another."

"But how do you know a man has a 'good pile?'"

"Oh, that's easy enough. In the first place, we 'spot' merchants from the country who are in the city to buy goods, and then there is no difficulty in finding out where they keep their money. The principle of the whole thing is, that a man having an unusually large amount of money on his person will be so careful of it that he will often feel to see whether it is safe.—Besides knowing these men we watch them, and so learn which ones are the most promising. Sometimes, too, those operators who stay in New York or other large cities are informed by brokers' clerks and others—they get a small share, about five per cent of the gains—of a certain merchant or banker having in his possession a large sum; if this is known, the man very likely loses his money."

"Well, George what is the average amount taken from a man's pocket?"

"It isn't so very much. I have followed a man two or three days with my pals, and only got five or six dollars from him, because he kept the bulk of his money in drafts. We 'get slipped up' in that way once in a while. Then, again, I have raked in as much as $3000. But a good average is twenty dollars; and that is very good in ordinary times."

"Finally, what is the great danger in this business?"

"It is that we get too bold, and that we generally drink and gamble. If I should have two good confederates, and all of us should be strictly temperate and moral, we never would be caught. Why, there is B——n, of Brooklyn, who is worth $50,000, and he has never been arrested. But I tell you, Capt. ——, that if I could make a good living honestly, I would do it; but everybody is down on me, and I can't get any work, and so I am forced to steal. I can do pretty well, to be sure; but I don't like continual fear and suspense The 'safety guards' are humbugs, and don't am'nt to anything."

Then you are going at it again when you get out?"

"I don't see what else I can do, but one thing is sure, I shan't blab and get caught again soon."

And he has not.

☞In the Recorder's Court at New Orleans the other day, a merry-faced and bright-eyed Milesian was arraigned for disorderly conduct.

The judge inquired very angrily, "If he was not ashamed to be there?"

"'Pon my sould, I am, yer honor."

"You are in very disreputable company."

"I know it, yer honor."

"It is shameful."

"Too true," was the penitent rejoinder.

"If I permit you to go this time, will you ever be caught in such company again?"

"Not unless yer honor sends for me, was the reply.

JUST A TRIFLE TOO COOL.—I have read of people who were too calm and complacent. Of such a character I think was the conductor who when he ran over a man, said he never liked to do it, "because it mussed up the track so."

And speaking of saws, and following this train of thought, I may mention a young man from the country who went into a hardware store, and, rapping a great buzz saw with his knuckles, remarked, "I had an old dad ripped to pieces with one of them fellers last week."

I think that young man exhibited too little emotion for the occasion. It showed a lack of filial affection only comparable to that of a boy belonging to a primary school in Manchester, N. H., who assured his schoolmaster that he would soon be able to indulge in his favorite sport on the river with the best of them. "Father," said he, "has gone to the war, and when he gets killed I am going to have his fish-line."

As cool a person, under the circumstances, as ever heard of, was a young man who in a frightful railway accident, missed his valet. One of the guards came up to him and said: "My lord, we have found your servant, but he is cut in two." "Aw, is he," said the young man, with a Dundreary drawl, but still with some anxiety depicted on his countenance, "will you be gwood enough to see in which half he has got the key of my carpet-bag?" To a sensitive mind his anxiety seems to have been misplaced.

The same unconsciousness to the awful aspects of death was exhibited by a man in New Jersey in 1859, who was employed to convey to his friends the body of a Mr. Wilson, who had died about fifty miles from home, of the cholera. On finding the house he knocked at the door, and the wife of the deceased opened it. "Does Mr. Wilson live here?" "Yes," said the lady, "but he is not at home to-day." "No, I know he ain't," said the young man, with a soothing voice, thinking to break the news gently, "but he will be in a minute, 'cause I've got him here dead in my wagon."

There was still a more reprehensible moral obtuseness in the remark of a man who inquired of the sheriff the night before the appointed day, "I say, Mr. Sheriff, at what hour does this little affair of mine come off?"

THE LOVE OF A MOTHER.—Is there a heart in all the world so bad as not to reverence the mother that watched over us in our infantile weakness—that guided and supported our first tottering footsteps—that hung in agony over us when sickness had laid its wasting hand upon us, and watched by us night and day—administering to our wants as none but a mother can—forgetful of herself?

Who of us has seen the mother in her anxiety for her darling child, forget even to take her accustomed meal? And as for sleep, that was out of the question till her cherished one was free from danger.

Stand with me by the side of the bereaved mother, when she is fully aware that her darling child has ceased to breathe, and is no more a habitant of earth. Does it not seem as though her heart must break? Witness the bowed form, the heaving chest, the swollen eye as she bends over that little coffin for the last time! and when the tiny form is gently lowered into its last resting place, and the falling gravel sends back its reverberating and muffled sound, does it not grate harshly upon that agonized mother's ear?

Who—oh! who can estimate a mother's love? How little is she appreciated while living! Not till she has passed away from our sight, do we know how to prize the gem which we once possessed. When the world's chilling breath passes over us, and withers the flowers in our youthful hearts—when we seek for sympathy, and find it not—when we do we yearn for her kind sympathizing heart, and weep when we think that her gentle voice can never fill our hearts with the sweet music.

"A mother—sweetest name on earth,
We lisp it on the knee,
And idolize its sacred worth
In manhood's infancy."

UNCLE WILL'S FAREWELL.—Uncle Will, after having drank himself poor, took a sensible notion to reform, which he succeeded in doing. We subjoin his farewell to whiskey and its attendant evils, which we advise all topers to read, and then follow Uncle Will's example:

Farewell, drunks so high and handy;
Farewell, rum and gin and brandy;
Farewell, empty pots and kettles,
Farewell, cupboards without "vittals;"
Farewell, rooms free to all weathers;
Farewell, beds which have no feathers;
Farewell, floors that need a swab file;
Farewell, yards that have no wood pile;
Farewell, faded hat and breeches;
Farewell, coats more holes than stitches;
Farewell, hats that have no rims on;
Farewell, faces red as crimson;
Farewell, tubs that have no bacon;
Farewell, ways that I've forsaken;
Farewell, broken chairs and tables;
Farewell, dwellings worse than stables;
Farewell, oaths that I have spoken;
Farewell, vows that I have broken;
Farewell, landlords and bar-tenders;
Farewell, all blue devil senders.

☞What Pennsylvania wants is a Registry Law, to prevent "repeating" and ballot-box stuffing. The present Legislature will have failed to do its duty, if this law is neglected.

ADJOURNED.—Both branches of the Legislature adjourned on Friday last, until the 8th inst., in order to give the members an opportunity to attend the Inauguration of General Grant, to-morrow.

☞Chief Clerk McPherson, of the House, will not only omit the names of the members elect from Georgia on the roll call at the organization of the new House, as authorized by the Reconstruction Committee, but will also omit the names of the Louisiana members.

☞The Hon. H. S. Dawes, of Massachusetts, has written a letter to Mr. Blaine, of Maine, withdrawing from the contest for the Speakership of the XLI'st Congress, which virtually leaves a clear field open to Mr. Blaine, as all or nearly all of the New England States will now support him, thus making his election almost certain, as Dawes was the most prominent candidate against him.

Who is to be the Cabinet Officer from Pennsylvania?

If all that has been said and written within the last two weeks, about who will and will not go into Grant's Cabinet from Pennsylvania, could be collected together, it would make a book of no mean proportions. The politicians are actively at work on Grant, but have failed to make anything out of him, unless we except Col. McClure, who called on the General last week to urge the claims of Gov. Curtin. That interview settled one point, viz, that Gov. Curtin will not get a seat in the Cabinet. That point being definitely settled, the names of a dozen other gentlemen have sprung up, spectre like, but all is speculation, and as we expect to give the Cabinet in full in our next, issue, we prefer not to occupy our space by useless conjecture and idle surmises.

PLAY FAIR.—Some newspaper correspondents, in their haste and desire to furnish the latest news, do not hesitate to mis represent and even lie about a man rather than spoil a good story. For instance: A Washington correspondent of the Beaver Radical signing himself "Nap," persists in grossly misrepresenting Senator Scott, and putting words into his mouth which he never uttered. Week before last he stated that Burley, of Blair county had Scott's written pledge to appoint him (Burley) U. S. Marshall of the Western District of Pennsylvania, and last week the same writer says "it is rumored that Senator Scott has signified his wish to General Grant that Pennsylvania be left without a Cabinet officer." These assertions are false in every particular, and we would advise "Nap" to either quit writing for newspapers altogether or else stop making a false record for a man who is abundantly able to make one for himself. Fair play! Give Scott a chance, and he will speak for himself.

Senator Scott.

To-morrow at 12 o'clock high noon, John Scott will be sworn in as a United States Senator for six years. To his immediate friends and neighbors, it is an event brim-full of importance. Much is expected of him by his friends, and they will not be disappointed. Known as he is in this community, we need no further evidence of his ability to make for himself a world-wide reputation as a statesman and an orator. He goes there comparatively unknown outside of the State, but in his place in the Senate, it will soon be found that he is the peer of any man on that floor. With the people of the country, he has yet to make a reputation, and that he will do so we feel warranted in assuring them that it will not be long until they learn to look up to him, as one of the most brilliant, gifted and upright Senator Pennsylvania ever had to represent her. He goes to Washington without a blot or blemish upon his character, and we defy any man living to put his finger upon a single act of his, that will for a single moment sully his fair fame. Honest, able and of unimpeachable integrity, he has been elevated to the position without a pledge or promise to any man, and we predict for him a brilliant and successful career.

State Temperance Convention.

The State Temperance Convention met in Harrisburg last week, for the purpose of devising means to prohibit the manufacture and sale of all intoxicating liquors. From a number of resolutions passed by that body, we extract the following:

Resolved, * * * "We do recommend the formation of a prohibitory league for the securing of proper men of settled temperance convictions and practice in every county, senatorial or representative district, for legislative and local offices, whether nominated by existing parties or not." * * * *

Now, we are just as much in favor of Temperance and will do as much for the cause as any man in that Convention but we protest against the blow aimed at the Republican party by the above recommendation, for every intelligent man knows that nine-tenths of the Temperance men belong to the Republican party, and if the Democrats can divide and distract our party by making an issue of temperance, they will do so and ride into power, through our folly, for every man of them will vote the regular straight out, simon-pure "Dimmycratic" ticket, while the Republican temperance men are being deluded into voting for what they think a purely temperance, but in reality nothing but a regular set up Democratic ticket.

Again, we do not believe that the people of this country can ever be driven into prohibition. The "whiskey ring" is too strong for any body of men to attempt to break down. The "ring" is rich—immensely rich—and will meet their antagonists at every step. Moral suasion is what we want, and what we must have before we can hope to make inroads upon the liquor traffic. If you wish to reclaim a friend from intemperance, do you go to work and abuse him? Certainly not. But you at once show him the evils of his indulgence, talk to him, plead with him, coax, pray and promise him everything, if he will only reform. If you cannot succeed in that way, there is no use in resorting to violent means, for then he becomes more determined in his own ruin. So with the masses. The rule is equally applicable to both, and we think it strange that our leading temperance men do not see it in the same light. Liquor is a curse to every nation upon the face of the globe, and we could wish that every drop of the poisonous drug might be thrown into sea or somewhere else, but this cannot be until our temperance men resort to moral suasion and stop threatening to do this, that and the other thing, if prohibition is not immediately brought about.

The Public Debt.

The House of Representatives, under lead of Gen. Schenck, did a noble work on Wednesday last, in enacting, 1. That the Public Debt of the United States is payable and will be paid in Gold or its equivalent; and 2. That contracts henceforth made payable in coin shall be duly enforced by law.—The vote against striking out the first proposition was very strong—129 to 54—and the bill passed by 119 Yeas to 61 Nays—almost two to one. The facts that the bill asserts the policy of an early return to Specie Payments and paves the way therefor add to our satisfaction at this result.

We cannot doubt that the Senate will concur by a vote at least equally strong, and that the hideous monster Repudiation will thus receive a second staggering blow. In fact, the election of Gen. Grant settled what this bill more precisely declares. We shall not repudiate—we shall not flounder forever in the slough of Suspension—we shall pay our National Debt, principal as well as interest, honestly and faithfully. Such being the truth, it is high time that our Public Credit evinced the popular faith in it.

The Constitutional Amendment Finally Adopted.

Both Houses of the National Legislature have finally adopted the proposed constitutional amendment.

The vote in the Senate stood 39 yeas to 13 nays, and in the House 143 yeas to 43 nays.

The bill including the amendment, reads as follows:

Be it enacted, &c.: two-thirds of both Houses concurring, That the following amendment to the Constitution of the United States be submitted to the Legislatures of the several States, and when ratified by three-fourths thereof, it shall be a part of said Constitution.

Article 15. The right of any citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or States on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

The Legislatures of twenty eight States must ratify the above before it can become a part of the Constitution.

THE FRANKING PRIVILEGE.—The following is the bill restricting the franking privilege passed by Congress, and now awaiting the President's signature:

Be it enacted, &c., That it shall not be lawful for any officer of the Government, member of Congress, or other person entitled by law to the franking privilege, to exercise said privilege otherwise than by his or her written autograph signature upon matter franked, and all letters or other mail matter not thus franked by the written signature of a person entitled by law to exercise said privilege, shall be charged with the rates of postage which are now or may hereafter be established by law.

National and State Legislatures.

CONGRESS.

Monday.—In the Senate at 12 o'clock the Senate assembled, and on motion took a recess until 7 P. M., when it re-assembled, and passed the bill abolishing the office of superintendent of exports and drawbacks. The House amendment to the currency bill was non-concurred in. The constitutional amendment, as it came from the House was then taken up and considered, but was not disposed of. Adjourned.

In the House under the call of States for bills and joint resolutions a bill was presented to recognize the independence of Cuba. The Post Office appropriation bill was passed.

Tuesday.—In the Senate the House amendment to the constitutional amendment were disagreed with, and a committee of conference appointed The bill to supply deficiencies for fulfilling certain Indian treaty stipulations was passed. To-day at 12:30 was assigned for the consideration of the joint resolution to provide for reporting and printing the debates and proceedings of the Forty-first Congress. The army appropriation bill was reported, with amendments. The bill to amend the judicial system of the United States was taken up and passed after which was discussed the bill to punish the crime of holding office in violation of the Fourteenth article of the Constitution. The bill amendatory of the civil right act was taken up and passed, without debate. The Senate then took a recess until 7:30 P. M., when it re-assembled, and disposed of a number of bills from the Committee on Commerce.

In the House the committee report on the Wyoming territory contested election case was laid on the table, and ordered to be printed. The copper bill was then passed over the veto. A bill reported by the Select Committee on the New York election frauds was passed by a vote of 89 yeas to 54 nays. Committee of conference were appointed on the bill regarding acting assessors, on naval appropriation bill, and on the suffrage constitutional amendment. The House then took a recess and considered the Legislative appropriation bill upon re-assembling.

Wednesday.—In the Senate the Committee on Private Land Claims made a report on the McGarrahan claim.—The postal service appropriation bill was reported without amendment.—The copper ore bill was passed over the veto, after which the Senate proceeded to consider, and disposed of the joint resolution reported by the Joint Committees on Printing, to provide for the reporting and printing of the debates of the next Congress. The army appropriation bill was discussed until 6 P. M., when it re-assembled and disposed of a large number of bills and resolutions. Adjourned at 10:35

In the House several bills relative to the Postal Telegraph were reported back from the committee. The bill to strengthen the public credit, and to legalize gold contracts was then taken up and passed. By unanimous consent it was agreed that, after to-day, the House will meet at 11 A. M., instead of 12. The Indian Appropriation bill was made the special order for to-day. The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the Legislative Appropriation bill, but pending its consideration, took a recess until 7:30 P. M., when it re-assembled and again considered the Legislative Appropriation bill.

LEGISLATURE.

Monday.—The Senate was not in session yesterday.

In the House an Act was reported favorably from the committee for the better regulation of delegate elections. Among the bills introduced and referred was one for the formation of a new county from part of Crawford, to be called Grant. Adjourned.

Wednesday.—In the Senate the Printing committee made a report in reference to Bates' Military History. A resolution was read proposing an amendment to the Constitution, providing that every year that a President is elected there shall be no election held in October, but on the day of the Presidential election.

The Darien Canal.

An article in Putnam, for March, on the Inter-Oceanic Canal across the Isthmus of Darien embodies a great amount of information of especial interest at the present moment. It is estimated that the saving in distance by the canal will be as follows: New York to Calcutta, 4,100 miles, to Canton, 8,900 miles; to Shanghai, 9,600 miles; to Melbourne, Australia, 3,340 miles; to Jeddo, Japan, 6,490 miles. Here is an immense saving in distance which is invaluable to our commerce. Another point to be considered is that a canal would enable vessels to pass from ocean to ocean without cargo; that a smaller class of ships could be employed in the carrying trade—vessels whose safety would be endangered by a passage round the Horn; that the East India products would be brought so much nearer to our doors that their use would be more general than now; and above all, that America would become a most formidable rival to Europe in the already rapidly increasing East India trade. It is estimated that the commerce around Cape Horn and over the Isthmus of Panama now amounts to about 3,500,000 tons annually, at an expense of say, $10 per ton making a total of $35,000,000 per year. Suppose half this expense should be saved by the construction of a canal, would not the enterprise pay, even if its building should absorb millions? The Panama railroad cost nearly $9,000,000 and nearly paid for itself in the first seven years. The road is now paying handsomely and rewarding its stockholders with heavy dividends. The trade of the United States, England and France, that would, in all probability, pass through the canal, has been estimated at $467,320,000, and as these figures were made up after careful study of the subject, they may be deemed very correct. It is estimated that the saving in money to the trade of the United States at $36,000,000; trade of England, $9,950,000; to the trade of France, $2,180,000; and to the trade of the combined world, $49,500,000. Should the trade of the world increase in the same ratio—100 per cent—for the next ten years, that it has for the past ten, there will accrue a saving of $100,000,000, when the canal finished.

A. Sidney Russell was elected to the position of Postmaster by the citizens of Bedford. That's a good way for a man to find out how many friends he has, and if the many candidates for that position in our borough would only resort to the same plan, they would do better, and save themselves much trouble in getting signers to a petition. Just try it.

Perpetual Scholarship.

The Philadelphia Press says that at a recent meeting of the trustees of Franklin and Marshall College, it was resolved to admit to the full course of study in that institution one student, perpetually, for every five hundred dollars contributed by any school district in Pennsylvania. In other words, by the present payment of five hundred dollars, a perpetual scholarship may be secured by any school district, to be filled at the nomination of the school directors. One such scholarship in every district, to be awarded to the best boy in the common schools therein, would prove a powerful stimulus to exertion, and the reward would be only appropriate and just.

The funds raised by this plan will be applied to the better endowment of the institution, the improvement of its real estate, and the extension of its educational facilities. They thus inure directly to the investors or buyers of scholarships.

Substantially this makes collegiate education in Pennsylvania free, for there is not a district in the State which cannot afford a scholarship, and thus send its most promising young men to college without any expense to them.

Here is an excellent chance to secure a perpetual scholarship in a first-class College. Five hundred dollars is a small sum for so great a privilege. We have the talent in our schools if properly cultivated to make first-class statesmen. By securing this scholarship and holding it up as a prize, it would be an incentive to our boys to exert themselves for the coveted honor. All parents who have boys are interested in this matter, and it would cost each one but a trifle to secure this most liberal offer. Say there are one thousand families with boys in this borough, it would cost but fifty cents each, and who would not give that sum for a chance to send there boy to College. What say the people?

The amount issued last year was Fifty-two Million Dollars. Mr. McNair will be glad to call on parties desiring reliable information upon Life Insurance, at their residence or places of business, and to meet any of the numerous Policy Holders of the Society. 1t*

Shameful Conduct.

One of the most aggravating species of maliciousness occurred in this place on Sunday night last that we have ever heard of. Rev. James Clarke had two young dogs which he named respectively "Grant" and "Colfax." On the night above stated some malicious individual seized the dogs and the next morning they were found stretched on the front porch of Mr. Clarke's residence with their throats cut from ear to ear. Whether this cruelty was done because the dogs were named as they were, or from some other cause, we don't know, but we must say that it shows very little humanity on the part of the person who would thus vent their spite on two innocent dogs.

Judgment Notes.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue recently decided that a Judgment note should be stamped at the usual rate of promissory notes, being five cents for every $100, or fractional part thereof, with five cents additional, on account of the clause "without defalcation." This decision is made under the clauses of the Internal Revenue law, which provide that no stamp duty shall be charged upon any warrant of attorney accompanying a bond or note duly stamped. The knowledge of this fact will prove of value to a large number of persons in this quarter.

Bounties to Soldiers.

The following bill has been introduced in Congress: "That there shall be paid to the widow, minor children, or parents, in the order named, of any soldier who served his full term of enlistment but died prior to the passage of the act of July 28, 1866, granting bounties to soldiers, the same bounty such soldier would have been entitled to under said act had he been living at the time of the passage thereof."

LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.

SHADE GAP, Feb. 22, 1869.

Dear Globe: This enterprising little village is situated on the mail route from Mount Union to Chambersburg, 17 miles from the former place and 32 from the latter. Passengers travelling this route either way, are obliged to stop over night at this place, which they can do very comfortably at the Milnwood Hotel, kept by the prince of landlords, Wm. McIlwain. John W. Scott, (namesake of the gentleman lately elected U. S. Senator), has charge of the stage line at present, and gives general satisfaction.

Yes, Shade Gap is rather a lively little village, and will become a more important point still, when the proposed Huntingdon, Fulton & Franklin Railroad passes through it, which it will do if it passes at all. Shade Gap will then be the nearest point to which the products of Tuscarora and Path Valleys can be carried. Our town is not large, numbering only about two hundred inhabitants, yet there is right smart of business done here in a short space of time. Some folks call it dull, but I could always find it lively enough for me.

To be sure, it has not the gay amusements of the city, such as Theatres, Billiard saloons, Gaff-Banks, or "such" as P. V. N. says, Ed. Booth never appeared here in his favorite role of "Hamlet," neither did Mrs. Barney Williams, ever take a benefit in Shade Gap; but leaving those out we have a right lively little village down here among the hills. Our citizens are all engaged in some useful occupation and I think our hamlet can boast of a limited number of "dummers and dead heads" as any other one in our county.

You can see looming up against the western sky, the gigantic proportions of the far famed Milnwood Academy, Prof. R. S. Kuhn, Principal. The main building is constructed of stone and is a model piece of Mason work, which reflects great credit upon its builders. Established in 1849, by Rev. J. Y. M'Ginnis. It has many advantages, among which are its retired situation, its commodious buildings, daily mail, few, if any, temptations to vice, incident to a large town, and last, but not least—its Faculty. This is where a large number of the teachers of Huntingdon county are fitted for the profession of teaching. About twenty of the class of 1868 are out teaching the young ideas how to shoot, this winter, and nearly all, with the exception of two or three of that number are teaching in Huntingdon county. QUIZ.

DUDLEY, PA., Feb. 25, 1869.

Messrs. Editors:—The weather has been quite changeable during the past week; first a small sno-storm, then pleasant, and lastly very hard freezing, which many say was the hardest freezing weather that we have had this winter.

Mining is resuming its former brikkness. Two of the mines on this region are now on a strike, known as the Union Mine and Mogredale No. 1, and operated by Riekert Bros.—the object being to obtain an advance in the price of mining.

There is a sort of Miners' Union on this region, every member being sworn not to reveal any of its doings. It has five degrees connected with the order, and is benevolent in its character. This Union of miners is causing quite an excitement here. Reports have it that these miners are dangerous fellows and are not to be trusted. It is said if a fellow-miner does anything contrary to their established rules, he gets a warning of three days notice to quit the region and if he does not, he will have to abide by the consequence, which is generally a hard beating.—One act of their overbearing character I will relate: On Feb. 15th, when Mr. Geo. Mears gave the balance of his cents per ton in the price of mining, a great many of the men resumed their work as before, and among them were men that did not be.ong to the M. P. U. When this was known to the members of the M. P. U. they held their meeting and on Tuesday night the 16th, they entered one of Mr. Mears' mines and smashed all the tools they could find belonging to those men not members of the M. P. U. Quite a number of the boss miners and operators have taken a stand and are determined to allow it to extend no farther at the present time. When I write the excitement runs very high and a great number of the miners, particularly of Powelton, Barren and Dudley mines, are adverse to the M. P. U. and unpleasant feelings now exist between the miners of the above mentioned mines and the miners of the Backswitch mines.

In my last letter I said that I would give an account of Broad Top City, or as it should be called, the City of Slender Spires. This town is located on the top of Broad Top Mountain and has a beautiful sight of the surrounding country. For health it is not surpassed by any town in the State. The buildings are very neat houses, some of them costly, the most noted one being the Broad Top House, kept by W. T. Penrod, Esq., it being the summer resort of the Philadelphia folks. The next is a stone house across the street having a store-room in it; it is a fine building and the mason work speaks well of its executors. The last building of note is a new brick mansion built by Mr. Jesse Cook before he died; it is situated on an elevation commanding a very extensive view, but the want of outside improvement is badly needed. Broad Top City has one lodge of I. O. of O. F., having some sixty members; one lodge of I. O. of G. T., which has done a great deal of good, one church, (Baptist,) three stores, two hotels, two taverns. The reason I give it the name of City of slender spires is from its number of lightning rods with guilt tops.—The want of room prevents me from giving a larger account of it. CARBON.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

NO NAME.

It is a common thing now-a-days to hear persons complain about their physical disabilities which bring so much discomfort to both mind and body, that they find no gratification in anything around them. One has no satisfying rest at night, another is always peevish and despondent, still another talk a no delight in society, and others again find no compensating pleasures in labor, exercise or even life. No names given in pathology for their ailments, nevertheless the causes are always present. They simply lack vital power, and Prof. Baker says that "the best remedy for this class is MISELER'S HERB BITTERS," which he has used for several years, and with uniform success," as it tones the Stomach and Liver—the seat of the complaint—and reconstructs the shattered constitution. This vitalizing tonic speedily removes the cause of languor and discontent, imparts a calm force to the nervous system, rouses the dormant organs of the body, and blesses the sufferer with perfect and lasting health. feb9

ALLEN, ATWOOD & BATES,
4w Nos. 67 Milk, 78 & 84 Devonshire St., Boston, Mass

I want to rouse each sleepy head,
Who stand upon the brink,
Where yawning gulfs disclose the dead,
Who might, but did not, think.

I want to warn the living ones
Who blindly grope along,
Ye fathers, daughters, mothers, sons,
What perils round you throng!

Look out, my reader, are you free,
Or do you wear the mark?
Most all are blind and cannot see,
Yes, groping in the dark.

Catarrh, a demon in the head,
Consumption is its sire;
Kills hosts, yea, countless millions, dead,
Perhaps you may be one.

That hacking, hawking, spitting, shows,
Catarrh affects your head,
Matter and slime in throat or nose,
Runs down your throat instead.

Your lungs and liver soon will show,
Consumption has its birth;
Catarrh, its sire, will feed it too,
'Till you return to earth.

If colds affect your head and throat,
ANNIHILATOR buy;
Now don't forget what I have wrote,
Or think the subject dry.

WOLCOTT'S ANNIHILATOR cures
Catarrh—the demon flies;
It saves the lungs, good health insures,
And Catarrh quickly dies.

I want to gratify my friends,
Who wish to understand
About PAIN PAINT, its use, its ends,
And why its great demand.

I want to show you, plain as day,
Why PAIN PAINT stops all pain;
That you may never have to say,
"I'll not try paint again."

PAIN PAINT will cool but never stain;
Pumps inflammation out;
Its harmless on the breast or brain,
A trial stops all doubt.

When inflammation leaves the frame,
All pain will cease at once;
Remove the cause, 'tis all the same;
None doubts unless a dunce.

The pores will ope and drink PAIN PAINT;
Absorbents fill with ease;
Restores the weak, the sick, the faint,
The greatest skeptics please.

Evaporation cools the place
As inflammation flies;
Hot blood at the absorbent's base
Makes PAINT in vapor rise.

'Tis thus PAIN PAINT removes all doubt,
Removes the very cause
By pumping inflammation out;
On this we rest our cause.

A Vermont paper, says an old bachelor, on learning that numerous additions had lately been made to the male population of the place, and the other sex said it was the inauguration of the new Grant doctrine, "Let us have peace."

A subscription paper for some religious object was handed to a zealous church member, when he remarked, "Well, I can give five dollars and not feel it." "Then," said the collector, "give ten and feel it." The point was seen at once, and the "ten spot" was forthcoming.

A letter bearing the following superscription was recently received at the Silver City post-office, from Iowa:

In Silver City, Idaho.

A little fellow, not more than five years of age, hearing some gentlemen at his father's table discussing the familiar line, "An honest man's the noblest work of God," said he knew it wasn't true; his mother was better than any man that was ever made.

An officer, who inspected his company one morning, spied one private whose shirt was sadly begrimed.—"Patrick O'Flinn!" called out the captain. "Here, yer honor?" promptly responded Patrick, with hand to cap. "How long do you wear a shirt?" thundered the office. "Twenty-eight inches long."

Affected young lady, seated in a rocking chair, reading the Bible, exclaimed: "Mother, here is a grammatical error in the Bible." Mother, lowering her spectacles, and approaching the reader in a very scrutinizing attitude, says: "Kill it! kill it! it is the very thing that has been eating the leaves and book marks."

During the first performances of one of the London Christmas pantomimes, two gas bags used in preparing the lime light exploded with a great report, and it was only by narrow escapes that actors and theatre were saved from injury. The audience thought the noise a part of the performance, and applauded it vigorously.

A smart child, upon being asked "What is conscience?" replied:

"An inward monitor."

"And what is a monitor?"

"One of the iron clads."

The unconscious innocent hit the nail on the head there. There are some consciences that a battery of 30 inch Rodman guns could not penetrate.

A rich old farmer, aged about seventy, in Cuyahoga county, Ohio, proposed marriage to a designing young chit of sixteen, and was accepted. The old man's grown-up children had their amatory progenitor apprehended on the charge of lunacy. The Judge gave him a sound lecture on the subject of deceitful women, which so opened his eyes that he left the room vehemently protesting that he didn't want to marry no body, no how.

Ayer's

Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in our estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it in nowise injures any patient. The number and importance of its cures in the agued districts, are literally beyond account, and we believe without a parallel in the history of Ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the acknowledgments we receive of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remedies had wholly failed.

Unacclimated persons, either resident in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the AGUE CURE daily.

For Liver Complaints, arising from torpidity of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity.

For Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass., and sold all round the world.

This oil is highly and delicately perfumed, forming an article unrivaled in excellence and upon which the Spanish people for many years have set its seal of enduring approval.
